• When can I register for a Game?

Ring Games and Satellites are continually spawned. So as soon as 2 players have registered to play a Ring Game or 10 players are at a Satellite, the Game begins.

Tournaments are listed in the Lobby 24 hours before their start time (click on it and you will see the registration details). Most tournaments are open for registration 1 hour before their start time. But tournament registration times can vary, so be sure to check.

Once you've registered for a tournament, your spot is reserved- you're free to play in other games. As soon as the tournament begins, you are randomly assigned to and seated at a table- even if you're not online.

• How do I Select the Type of Poker Game to Play in?

You can scroll through all the games shown on the Lobby, and/or click on the tab at the top of the listings to show only the game type that is of interest to you.

• Where do I see what the minimum buy-in of a game is?

Tournaments: The buy-in amounts (when required) for tournaments are identified on the same line as the Game listing in the Lobby. They are also described on the Tournament Info Page.

Ring Games: The minimum and maximum amount of buy-ins (if any) for ring games are on the same line as the Game listing in the Lobby. They are also displayed on the Side Panel (to right of Game listings).

• Can I Select which Table I want to be Seated at?

You can select the table and seat at which to play only in Ring Games. But in Multi-Table Tournaments and Satellites, you cannot- you are randomly assigned the table and seat.

• Can I Play More Than One Table at the Same Time?

We recommend that you play no more than three different games. But you cannot be seated at different tables in a single Tournament, because of the collusion that might occur as the tables collapse.

So, for example, you can play in one Tournament and 2 Ring Games at the same time, or a Satellite and 2 different Tournaments at the same time.

• Need More Time- What should I do if I Need More Time to make a difficult decision?

In a tournament, a player is allowed 20 seconds to act when it is their turn. The last ten seconds are counted down.

In ring games, a player is allowed 25 seconds to act. The last fifteen seconds are counted down.

• What happens to my hand if I cannot return back in Time after a Disconnect??

It depends on the game you are playing.

TOURNAMENT OR SATELLITE: If playing a Tournament or Satellite and you time out, you will lose the current pot then continue to be antied away until you have no more chips.

RING GAME: If playing a Ring Game and you cannot return in time you are deemed to be all-in for the current amount of chips in the pot. If you have already used your one per day all-in protection, your hand will either be checked or folded if someone bets into them. If you are still not able to reconnect, after ten minutes, you will be removed from the table and your remaining chips will be returned to your account.

Players who try to use the all-in due to disconnection rule to gain an unfair advantage will have their account terminated.
